

Leadership Profile

Stewart Joslin Chief Financial Officer

In April 2010, Stewart Joslin, CPA, joined the Cornell Scott-Hill Health Center's leadership team as Chief Financial Officer, bringing with him over twenty years of experience in the field of finance. As Cornell Scott-Hill Health Center's Chief Financial Officer, Stewart oversees the organization's forty-seven million dollar yearly operating budget, while ensuring compliance with all regulations concerning the expenditure of federal and state funds. Additionally, Stewart produces monthly and annual financial statements, handles all budgeting and forecasting, and oversees payroll, purchasing, and accounts payable/receivable.

Throughout Stewart's career, he has been a leader, providing executive-level financial guidance to several businesses and organizations throughout Connecticut. Most recently, Stewart served as the Chief Financial Officer for the Visiting Nurse Association of South Central Connecticut.

In addition to extensive financial leadership experience, Stewart also brings community health center experience to his position. In 2010, Stewart served as a financial consultant to Harbor Health Services, the nation's oldest community health center. As a consultant, Stewart helped the organization develop and implement a new, interactive budgeting model and streamlined its financial reporting package. Previously, Stewart worked for four years as the Chief Financial Officer at Community Health Center in Middletown, Connecticut.

While Stewart's career has revolved around numbers, he is more inclined to talk about people. As Cornell Scott-Hill Health Center's Chief Financial Officer, Stewart's biggest goal is to make a difference in the lives of the people the health center serves by providing them with the highest level of treatment possible. At the end of the day, Stewart believes the true bottom line is client satisfaction.

Stewart has twelve years of military experience having first served as an inertial navigation technician in the United States Air Force and then as a technical sergeant in the Connecticut Air National Guard. He received his B.S. degree in accounting and business administration from the University of Connecticut in Storrs, Connecticut.
