

About Cornell Scott–Hill Health Center

The Cornell Scott-Hill Health Center was the first community healthcare center in Connecticut when we were founded in 1968. We are a federally qualified community health center and we serve over 30,000 patients throughout the greater New Haven area.

We are a Joint Commission accredited institution which means we are held accountable to the highest standards and best practices in safe and effective care.

A former winner of the Johnson & Johnson Crystal Award, the Cornell Scott-Hill Health Center continues to achieve significant progress in the field of community health. We provide comprehensive healthcare services as well as a number of special programs. These programs include, but are not limited to:

- Birth-to-Three services for developmentally delayed children
- HIV/AIDS education and outreach to at-risk populations
- 29-bed alcohol and drug detoxification program
- 44-bed transitional shelter for homeless men
- Outreach to homeless individuals and families
- Diabetes prevention and education
- Perinatal case management
- School-based health centers
- Outreach and social/educational services to pregnant teenagers
- A child and family guidance clinic

Our vision is to become the Nation's pre-eminent community-based provider of care that reduces long-term costs and saves money and lives through prevention and positive health promotion. We create accessibility through location, affordability and the devotion of our extraordinarily capable caregivers.
